

'Guilt by Association' Tactics Used by Demos

For many years, the liberal wing of the Democratic party, both in California and nationally, has rallied against the pernicious doctrine of guilt by association.

Just because a person has appeared on a speaker's platform with Communists, or has lent his name to an organization dominated by Communists, or has signed an ad or voted, as a public official, in support of positions favored by Communists — it doesn't follow that that person himself is a Communist.

The liberals have done such an excellent job convincing the public that guilt by association is shockingly unfair that it is surprising, to say the least, to find that this discredited doctrine is being employed as the main thrust in Governor Brown's campaign against the Republican challenger, Ronald Reagan.

It will be fascinating to see how well — or how poorly — the guilt by association ploy works. It's always been a tricky tool, and it often backfires.

For example, Reagan is accused of right wing extremism because he is a member of the national advisory board of a conservative youth group, Young Americans for Freedom. But then, so are 39 Congressmen and U. S. Senators. Does anyone believe there are 39 Birchers in Congress?

Another example of Reagan's "extremism" cited by Democratic State Chairman Robert R. Coate is his support by southern California industrialist Patrick J. Frawley, who sponsored the Christian Anti-Communist Crusade. The two big stars in that project were former Congressmen Walter Judd of Minnesota and Senator Thomas Dodd of Connecticut.

Judd was keynote speaker at the 1960 Republican National Convention, so presumably, under the guilt by association doctrine, that makes all Republicans right wing extremists.

Dodd, however, who is currently being investigated by a Senate committee for various alleged irregularities, happens to be a liberal Democrat, and a close political friend of President Johnson.

Guilt by association, of course, is a two-way street. Last week it was announced that Stokely Carmichael, chairman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) is joining with a group of left-wing European intellectuals to "try" President Johnson for murder because of his policies in Viet Nam. SNCC is one of the leading supporters of Cesar Chavez' "Huelga" movement in Delano, which in turn is supported by the AFL-CIO, who in turn are actively supporting Reagan's opponent, Governor Brown. Does this mean that the Governor believes the President is guilty of murder?

Liberal Democrats have never forgiven Richard Nixon for using what they claimed were guilt by association tactics in defeating former Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas, who, incidentally, was in the acting business. Can they, in the current gubernatorial campaign, successfully employ the tactics they spent years in educating the public to reject?

May Co. South Bay Store To Offer Bridge Lessons

Bee Shermet, accredited master bridge teacher, will conduct a ten-lesson bridge course at the May Co. South Bay store beginning Thursday, Sept. 22.

The class will meet on consecutive Thursdays through Dec. 1. Six May Co. stores will offer the bridge lessons. The first five lessons in the course will include basic instruction for beginners and intermediates, using the play-as-you-learn method. The second five lessons will be for advanced intermediate players.

The lessons will be conducted in the tea room at the May Co. store from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. A fee for each lesson will be charged.

Mrs. Shermet, who became a bridge life master in 1955, has just completed a 15-week series of lessons for the May Co. stores.
